English is one of the most enchanting languages of all time. Being an English teacher would not only allow me to indulge myself in the atmosphere of English but also grant me the opportunity to foster our next generation. I relish the golden chance to fulfill my dream as a language teacher by studying English at university.

career goal
determination

In my secondary education, I have striven persistently to explore fields related to English and to communicate in English so as to equip myself for the profession through academic and non-academic involvement.

As the president of the Conservancy Club, I was trained to have leadership, communication skills and creativity. Once the team was united, all the difficulties could be solved much more efficiently because all the committee members were engaged in the club and were willing to take responsibility in every task. It was not as simple as it seemed - I could not afford to make a single mistake because every member was counting on me. It made no sense for a leader to hold back the schedule and to thus disappoint the people who had faith in me. My performance spoke for itself, I managed to handle all the duties and coordinate more than 60 members to take part in various activities. The most rewarding thing was that I helped to raise the members' eco-awareness and their interest in participating in tasks related to conservancy. My confidence has improved a lot through co-operating with others and solving problems with a clear mind.

Being a member of the Health in Mind Club definitely inspired me to devote more care to the needy and the poor in society. I joined many gatherings with the ex-mentally ill people, who were indeed kind-hearted and optimistic. We had great fun playing games and chatting with each other. We are friends now. They have recovered from the illnesses completely and there was no disparity between them and anybody else. However, they are facing a tough time because some people can still not accept them or even have hatred towards them. I truly believe that a man's dignity depends not upon his appearance but his character. Everyone has the right to be respected. So society should show generous support to the ex-mentally ill person. People could also show their concern to the less-privileged through active participation in community service projects. They will also be able to contribute to society if they are given a chance to do so.

All the experiences during my secondary school life increased my determination to nurture the students in the future and help them to develop proper value towards humanity.

I hope that the attributes of a sense of responsibility, willingness to collaborate with people, and perseverance have laid a solid foundation for my pursuit in furthering my studies and career aspirations. I am looking forward to a new journey.
